Appendix D: Requirements of validation

In order to ensure adherence to the safe scientific status, the individual methods for manufacturing and testing must be validated under certain circumstances (compare § 34 para. 1 no. 3, § 35 para. 1 no. 4 and para. 4 sentence 1 no. 2 b, para. 6 sentence 3 ApoBetrO [Pharmacies Rules and Regulations]). The ApoBetrO [Pharmacies Rules and Regulations] incorporates a legal definition in § 1 a para. 16 (quotation translated):

“Validation is the provision of documented proof which with a high degree of safety documents that, via a specific process or standard work process, a medicinal product is manufactured and tested, which is in accordance with previously determined quality features.”

Validation documentation can be used to prove that methods or devices which are not described in the Pharmacopoeia within the meaning of § 6 para. 1 sentence 3 ApBetrO [Pharmacies Rules and Regulations] achieve the same results as those in the Pharmacopoeia. On the other hand, with the requirements of the demanded validation it must be observed whether the respective testing method is already incorporated in the Pharmacopoeia.

NIR spectroscopy as a general testing method need not be validated in accordance with the express ruling in the Ph. Eur. Section 1.1 [3], as it is already described in Section 2.2.40 of the Ph. Eur. as an area of application for the identification of raw materials.

However, a special validation requirement exists for the reference database. This requirement is met with the existing document. Further requirements or rules as to how this proof must be furnished do not exist. It is required that the processes guarantee the same results as the methods and devices in the Pharmacopoeia [17].

Carrying out identity tests with Apo-Ident is therefore also possible if the NIR spectroscopy process is not required in the Pharmacopoeia monograph of the substance for identity testing. All NIR analyses with Apo-Ident prove several, often all molecule groups and are therefore comparable with a series of individual, targeted chemical proofs [4]. Therefore, the identity proof with Apo-Ident replaces the monograph test series (with two or more test combinations).

Figure 2: The combination of tests of the monograph is replaced by the alternative method NIR spectroscopy using Apo-Ident. This is permissible because both test procedures result in the establishment of the identity of the raw material.

With this validation documentation, proof is furnished that identical results are achieved with Apo-Ident and Pharmacopoeia methods, i.e. confirmation of the identity of the raw material [2].

Appendix E: Conformity of Apo-Ident with the European pharmacopeia

According to Ph. Eur. Section 2.2.40, NIR spectroscopy is basically suitable for: “Identification of agents, excipients, dosage forms, intermediate manufacturing products, chemical raw materials and packaging materials” ([3], quotation translated).

The fact that Apo-Ident meets the further criteria of the European Pharmacopoeia under the headings in Section 2.2.40

- Apparatus
- Measurement methods
- Sample preparation and presentation
- Testing the functionality of the instrument
- Identification and characterisation (qualitative analysis)
- Quantitative analysis
- Ongoing model evaluation
- Transfer of databases
- Data storage

can be proven based on the HiperScan GmbH documentation of “Meeting 2.2.40 Ph. Eur. by Apo-Ident” [4].

Appendix F: Explanation of the spectrum acquisition under the control of HiperScan GmbH

The spectra for the generation of the database (type A) and the spectra for the validation of the database (type B) are recorded exclusively under the control of HiperScan GmbH. This means that the spectra are recorded either by a qualified employee of HiperScan GmbH or by an employee of the Fagron Group who has been trained and authorised by HiperScan GmbH. Prior to inclusion in the database, the quality assurance of the spectra is carried out by a qualified employee of HiperScan GmbH.

Appendix H: Module for Qualitative Analysis of Cannabis Flowers

The qualitative analysis of cannabis flowers is available only to subscribers of the corresponding reference database. This enables the use of an additional module as a second-stage model.

Purpose of the Module

The module provides evidence of the presence of both  $\Delta^9$ -tetrahydrocannabinol (THC) and cannabidiol (CBD), as well as their acid forms, in cannabis flowers and essential oil-containing herbal drugs (e.g., hop strobiles, rosemary leaves, mate leaves, peppermint leaves, and many others). A result is considered positive if the mass fraction is at least 5 %.

A qualitative detection of THC and/or CBD is carried out using qualitative methods in accordance with Ph. Eur. Section 5.21 Chemometric methods for the evaluation of analytical data. Thus, the module for the qualitative analysis of cannabis flowers represents, in most cases, a complete alternative to the thin-layer chromatography (TLC) method described in the monograph for cannabis flowers. In cases where the module cannot deliver a fully reliable result, the use of another validated analytical method is recommended (see Structure and Functionality).

Structure and Functionality

The spectrum of a cannabis flower undergoes the following steps within the IdentModule:

1. Upon selecting one of the three chemotypes of cannabis flowers, the sample spectrum is first analyzed using the model for Solid APIs & excipients.
2. If one of the three cannabis chemotypes is identified as the closest match in the Solid APIs & excipients model, the spectrum is forwarded to the module for qualitative analysis of cannabis flowers.
3. The spectrum is checked for similarity to known cannabis flower spectra. This test may also be passed for spectra from other essential oil-containing herbal drugs. Fundamentally dissimilar spectra are rejected at this stage.
4. The sample is analyzed in parallel using two specialized models that yield a positive or negative result for THC and/or CBD detection. If the model cannot provide a clearly reliable result (e.g., if cannabinoid content is near the 5 % threshold), a neutral result is returned.
5. Based on the results of the THC and CBD models, the substance is identified as follows:

| Model Result for |          |                                                                               |
|------------------|----------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| THC              | CBD      | Substance                                                                     |
| positive         | positive | Cannabis flower, THC/CBD type                                                 |
| positive         | negative | Cannabis flower, THC type                                                     |
| negative         | positive | Cannabis flower, CBD type                                                     |
| negative         | negative | Sample rejected, as it cannot be a defined and selectable medicinal substance |
| neutral          | (...)    | Recommendation to conduct another validated analysis, e.g., TLC               |
| (...)            | neutral  |                                                                               |

6. Finally, the result is compared with the initial assumption (selected substance).

Cannabis Flower Substances and Samples

For model development and module optimization, cannabis flowers of pharmaceutical quality were primarily used. These cover the full range of THC/CBD content combinations available in pharmacies. The quality of these flowers is documented through appropriate manufacturer certificates. Additionally, CBD-type flowers from so-called CBD shops were recorded to supplement the data base. These samples mainly serve to improve model robustness and have limited relevance to the pharmacy market. Certificates are only partially available for these samples.

The THC and CBD content of all cannabis flower samples was determined via HPLC, in accordance with the valid monograph, using the same flower(s) from which the NIR spectra were obtained. The date of this analysis is listed in the validation report tables under Certificate. Based on these reference values, samples were classified as THC- or CBD-containing if the content (mass fraction) exceeded the 5 % threshold. Subsequently, the samples were grouped into substances by chemotype in accordance with point 5 of the table under Structure and Functionality.

- The following samples exhibit a THC content above and a CBD content below 5 %. They have been assigned to the THC-dominant chemotype.

| Sample ID | Producer                    | Brand                        | Content / % |      |

Each of these cannabis flowers was first measured with the Apo-Ident directly as taken from the package, without any pretreatment. Subsequently, spectra of ground flowers were also recorded. This approach is intended to increase the robustness of the model.

Unambiguous Identifiability

A specificity of 100 % (true negative rate) is required for the module for qualitative analysis of cannabis flowers.

In contrast to other models, the distance to other substances is not evaluated directly. Instead, a probability value for a positive or negative result is calculated based on Type A spectra within a given distance from the sample spectrum. From all available cannabis flower samples, a threshold was determined for correct identifications. If the probability value of the sample exceeds this threshold plus a safety margin, the identification is considered unambiguous. Otherwise, a neutral result is issued. The probability thresholds used are summarized in the following table:

| Model              | Classification | Probability Threshold |
|--------------------|----------------|-----------------------|
| CBD Identification | CBD positive   | 0.92                  |
|                    | CBD negative   | 0.82                  |
| THC Identification | THC positive   | 0.89                  |
|                    | THC negative   | 0.85                  |

Validation and Scope of the Models

The detection of THC and CBD, including their acid forms, is performed using two specialized PCA models. These are trained with spectra of cannabis flowers, pure cannabinoids, and selected herbal drugs.

To define the herbal drug selection, all pharmacy-relevant herbal drugs were initially considered together with cannabis flowers using the main model for Solid APIs & excipients. Herbal drugs whose spectral distance to cannabis flower samples was smaller than the distance to the next API were selected. After building the first generation of the THC and CBD models, the herbal drugs with the largest spectral distance to cannabis flower samples were successively removed until no further improvement in detection rate could be achieved.

The module for qualitative analysis of cannabis flowers is implemented as a second-stage model following the model for Solid APIs & excipients (analogous to the submodels). The main model acts as a prefilter, ensuring that only spectra similar to cannabis flower spectra are forwarded. This applies to cannabis flower spectra and certain essential oil-containing herbal drugs.

The restricted selection of substances for model calibration enables high performance, allowing even subtle spectral differences to be effectively evaluated. In combination with the prefiltering main model, this enables differentiation from a wide range of substances.

The module for qualitative analysis of cannabis flowers has been fully validated against all substances of the classes Solid APIs & excipients, Solid Narcotic Substances, Drugs, and other Chemicals.

Ongoing Model Maintenance

According to Ph. Eur. [3], regular acquisition of new samples and re-evaluation of chemometric models is required. This necessitates batch maintenance for the cannabis flower analysis module. This also applies to the herbal drugs used for calibrating the PCA models for THC and CBD identification. The spectra of all other herbal drugs are considered sufficiently distinct (correlation < 0.86) from cannabis flower spectra and are thus filtered out beforehand, meaning they are not evaluated by the cannabinoid identification models.

Regular batch maintenance for calibration and validation of the cannabis flower analysis module is performed for the following herbal drugs:

- Nettle seeds
- Herniaria
- Cannabis flowers
- Bitter fennel
- Cloves
- Ginkgo leaves
- Hop strobiles
- Chamomile flowers
- Caraway
- Lavender flowers
- Mate leaves
- Lemon balm leaves
- Pepper
- Peppermint leaves
- Marigold flowers
- Rosemary leaves
- Celery fruits
- Black mustard seeds
- Senna leaflets
- Thyme
